

Santa Claus "At Home" At The Variety Store Oregon, Mo.

At peace with the world, America is so happy and prosperous this year that good old Nick has had to establish sub-stations all over the land--and this store is one of them. He's going to hold a series of "At Homes" at our store.

Beginning MONDAY, DECEMBER 13th
You Are Cordially Invited

This store is celebrating a big successful year's business and to show our appreciation we are co-operating with Santa Claus in helping everybody to a happy Christmas. We are giving things away.

There's a Christmas Gift Here For You

Listen while we tell you about it.

From our big, varied stock we have selected hundreds of dandy presents and put them into sealed packages. Nobody knows just what is in a package, but it's sure to be a dandy present.

We've put these presents on our Christmas Tree.

And some of them are there for you. Bring the "At Home Coupon" for each day, on the day it's dated, and then after you have selected to the amount of $1.00 or more, go right over to the tree and take your pick of any of the gifts there.

You can come every day if you want to and we hope you will. Just two things to remember--bring the right coupon and make the purchase for not less than $1--then the gift is yours.

Generation Quilt.

The Craig, Mo., quilting club met at 10 o'clock a. m., Nov. 30, 1915, at the home of Della Hunter, deceased, of Craig, Mo., now occupied temporary as care keeper, by her niece, Mrs. Adeline Brown, to quilt the generation quilt for the above mentioned person. Only four of the charter members were present, Mrs. Sarah Stokes being taken from her earthly home to her home above, the rest were away making their holiday visits, nevertheless the new members swelled the number to a good round dozen; who not only quilted the entire quilt, but did their work well. The active members were: Mrs. Fillmore Parrish, Mrs. W. A. Parrish, Mrs. A. R. Stokes, Mrs. Rufus Guilham, Mrs. Charles Anibal, Mrs. W. H. Hambaugh, Mrs. F. K. Allen, Mrs. Mary Wise and Mrs. Adeline Brown. The honorary members were: Mr. A. R. Stokes, Mr. F. K. Allen and Mr. W. H. Hambaugh. They did not work on the quilt, but rendered some assistance in clearing off the dinner table.

The reason the owner has named it her Generation Quilt is that Mrs. Brown came across a number of patch-work squares, and said: "If you give them to me I will join them together and make a quilt," which Mrs. Hunter agreed to, saying that patchwork was commenced at Mrs. Brown's childhood home, by the mother of Della Hunter, whose name was Susan Gillett. Her daughter, the mother of Adeline Brown, put a few pieces together, and sewed them into a few squares or blocks, her name being Louisa Plowman. This was just prior to Mrs. Brown's mother's death, which occurred when Mrs. Brown was a little past 10 years old. It was put away for years by Mrs. Hunter's mother, but just before her daughter, Della, was married the patchwork blocks were finished or sufficient to complete a quilt and given by her to her daughter, now just made, Mrs. Della Hunter. This all happened up in Michigan, over 40 years ago. Mrs. Della Hunter brought them to Craig, Mo., tucked them away until Grandma Gillett's little granddaughter, Adeline, to whom she used to relate Mother Goose stories, came across them, and on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 25, 1915, she finished joining together, and it was quilted by the Craig, Mo., quilting club, Nov. 30, 1915.

This quilt has the distinction of having three generations working on it, of which the ones above mentioned, and three generations have worked on it in Missouri in quilting: Mrs. Rufus Guilham, Mrs. Clara Anibal, Mrs. Guilham's daughter. After the club departed, in tripped Miss Frances Anibal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anibal, and on looking over the quilt discovered one place not quite complete, and taking a needle, thread and thimble proceeded to finish where it was unfinished. This gave grandma's quilt four generations of workers on it from Missouri, as well as from Michigan. X.
